

*A graveyard where no coffins lie
Where thousands live and millions die.
The tombstones made by those no more
A home for many in their core.
A colony of poison threads
Rising up from the death bed.
Uncounted blades to flay your skin
Or sink the ship you're riding in.*

*Like a knife to butter it is the key,
To open me up, scratch it on me.*