

*Like golden sand not on a beach,
Motes that flee from teeth and grit.
The craftsman makes it then throws it away.
Or raises it up with a little bit.*